

Dear Susan

Please find Transnet's response to your query.

- Transnet wishes to thank you as well as acknowledge receipt of your email dated 24 May 2018.
- We have also browsed through the contents and appreciate that the information or answers you're requesting requires an appropriate consultation with appropriate role-players to provide information and answers to your questions.
- Whilst we undertake to attend to your request in full, we should point out that Transnet takes pride in responding timeously to stakeholders request for information (media included).
- Given current development e.g. the appointment and activation of the Judge Zondo State Capture Commission; SIU, the formal appointment of the new Transnet Board, Transnet ongoing engagement with parliamentary structures and processes that require specific actions from our shareholder, we're mindful that most of these developments require Transnet to exercise a duty of care to requests for information about issues that are essentially similar and/or related.
- Transnet is currently looking for the most appropriate ways of handling requests similar to the ones raised in your query. We have to be mindful of not overstepping or encroaching into areas currently being covered by statutory structures including law enforcement agencies such as the Hawks, the SIU and Asset Forfeiture Unit.
- Please note that the executives you quote have not been given the opportunity to be in possession of the report or an opportunity to factually respond to those allegations and to engage with it as it is still the exclusive property of the Board.
- The mentioned executives will upon request subject themselves to the appropriate processes relating to these matters as investigations are in fact ongoing.
- Generally, it is worth mentioning that Transnet and its executives follow stringent procurement procedures and processes and this was not an individual exercise but a collective team effort with a number of committees aimed at ensuring that the final result is to the benefit of the company.
- The signature and documents in your possession have not been verified, does not mean the mentioned individuals were involved in any adjudication or business case development as you allege and you would require to be a circumspect in the use of that information.
